Not illustrated. 1895 Excerpt: .A few years afterwards Anthony Trollope began to publish with it. Another marked feature of the business was the issue of the South Kensington Museum handbooks, the result of a connection with Sir Henry Cole that arose out of the Art Union Journal and of the Journal of Design, which Chapman & Hall issued between 1847 and 1852. Edward Chapman retired about 1854. and as Mr. Hall was already dead, Frederick Chapman became head of the firm, and he purchased the copyrights of his works on Dickens' death, and subsequently those of Carlyle, two bold ventures, which were completely justified by their success. He also bought the Fortnightly Review. In 1880 he turned the business into a limited company, of which he remained the manager down to his decease. NOTES ON AUTHORS. Eric Mackay, author of the Love-Letters of a Violinist, is preparing a new volume of poems which will be of a more varied and forcible character than anything he has previously done. G. W. Smalley, who has been identified with the New York Tribune for nearly forty years, thirty of which were spent in London as its correspondent, has severed his connection with that paper and returned to this country to become the New York correspondent of the London Times. The real name of Alice Spinner, who wrote about one of the best of the admirable Pseudonym Series--the uniquely humorous Colour Studies--is Mrs. Fraser. She was by birth a Miss Webb, a daughter of...
