Not illustrated. 1894 Excerpt: . of the school; (2) every alumnus becomes a recruiting station for good, healthy interests of the school and applicants for admission in his district. It would have the further advantage of bringing our church, through the elective power of its alumnus-pastor, into closer sympathy and work with our theological school. The average Unitarian church member knows but little of the place where the denomination is educating its young men and women for his pulpit. This increased power and helpfulness of his minister could be made a matter of statement and interest to the congregation, and serve as an incentive for greater zeal in its behalf by him. Can we not look forward to a period of greater activity in the alumni by this added responsibility and trust? L. H. B. Ube aseneficiars jfuno. Aid to students can be given in three ways: as a reward for high scholarship, as a loan to be repaid in easy installments, or as a direct gift. Here, at Meadville, the money from the beneficiary fund is given to the students direct, the only thing asked of them in return being that they shall in their work maintain an average of seventy per cent. It is doubtful if this plan is the best one, both because it is not the most delicate and considerate way of giving aid, tending to make the student depend so largely upon exertions other than his own, and because it also fails to require a...
