There is the everlasting possibility of disobedience, civil disorder, destruction, yes, yesbut the mere whisper or cloud no larger than a man s hand of revolution in this country is madness It is 6th May 1926, the third day of the General Strike. This is the story of that harrowing week seen through the eyes of the women and men of London as they move through that unreal city. We meet those who gave their all for the strikeand a vision of a better world. We meet, too, those who fought to break it with every weapon they had: power, politics, moneyor brute force. There are masters and workmen, fascists and communists, politicians and trade unionists, wives and mistresses, artists, writers and scientists, all caught up in the web of each other s lives. But above all we follow the thread of Hervey Russell s life as she is swept up by the political ferment around her, by the difficulties of a new marriage, and by her hopes and fears for the future. Storm Jameson (1891- 1986) born to a North Yorkshire family of shipbuilders. Jameson s fiery mother, who bore three girls, encouraged Storm (christened Margaret Storm) to pursue an academic education. After being taught privately and at Scarborough municipal school she won one of three county scholarships which enabled her to read English Literature at Leeds University. She then went on to complete an MA in European Drama at King s College London. During her career Jameson wrote forty-five novels, numerous pamphlets, essays, and reviews, in an effort to make money. Her personal life suffered, and her first marriage to schoolmaster Charles Douglas Clarke was an unhappy...
