Even a well-ventilated basement, however, is a most unsuitable place for the storage of gasoline, which should be kept in outside tanks of approved construction. H-12611. There were no outside openings to this basement, and the smoke, being very dense, it was impossible for the firemen to reach the seat of the fire from the stairway opening. The fire was not extinguished until after the collapse of the first floor. Watch Service. H-5376. A loss of $66,500 was caused by this fire, which, owing to the absence of alarm service, had gained great headway before its discovery. H-7131. This $150,000 fire was not discovered until it had been burning for several hours. No watchman service was maintained. S-15727. This fire occurred on a Saturday afternoon after the grocery had closed, but before the watchman, who was on duty at night only, had arrived. Three sprinklers extinguished the fire, but the water loss was heavy, as there was no one on the premises to shut off the water, and no automatic alarm service was installed. Miscellaneous. H-11130. Fire started at the rear of the building, and had gained considerable headway before discovery. A passerby broke in the front door before the arrival of the fire department, and the fire at once spread to the front of the building. A corrugated metal roof without openings through which flames and smoke could escape caused the fire to spread laterally, --a...
